CalPal is a tool that uses computer vision and optical character recognition to detect details from an event poster and autopopulate a calendar event.